

Dear fellow vocal educator,

Do you have:

- a special student who would benefit from extra instruction?
- a choir preparing for a competition?
- a vocal group in need of some post-spring break motivation?

I know that these are lean times – money is tight and programs are getting cut. Unfortunately music is often the first thing to go, and students’ music is silenced. My goal is to keep the singing going strong in my native Southern Oregon by sharing my passion for all things vocal with the next generation.

I specialize in vocal workshops and acappella groups, but I am available for anything that would benefit your students musically. I am looking forward to once again being an integral part of the musical community in Southern Oregon. Please give me a call at 503.516.7797 or email aroseandasong@yahoo.com to schedule a session.

In harmony,

Josh Killingsworth
